BOOK TRADE JOURNAL

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852.]

PUBLICATION OFFICE, 59 DUANE STREET, NEW YORK.

VOL. LIV., No. 7. NEW YORK, August 13, 1898. WHOLE No. 1385

GENERAL LIBRARY UNIV. OF MICH. 15 AUG 1898

"THE FOREMOST OF THE LITERARY MAGAZINES."

The Bookman.

JAMES LANE ALLEN, author of "The Choir Invisible," says:

"The Bookman is the nearest approach to the ideal journal of its class that has yet been made in this country. It is always interesting, and always valuable to the book reader, book writer, book publisher, and bookseller."

F. J. STIMSON, author of "King Noanett," says:

"I think that, for authors, booksellers, and publishers, The Bookman is quite the brightest and most interesting periodical of the sort."

THE SEPTEMBER NUMBER will be a notable one, as regards both circulation and contents, and will include illustrated articles on "Bismarck as Editor and Phrase-maker," "Nietzsche, the German Philosopher," "The First Books of Holmes, Emerson, Hawthorne, and Whittier," and many poems, notes, papers, portraits, and reviews of timely interest and value, besides the regular departments on books and bookselling. : : Ready August 25th.

☞ The circulation of The Bookman during the 12 months of 1897 averaged upwards of 14,000 copies per month, and carried more paid "publishers" and "book" advertising than any other magazine in America.

Advertising rates on application.

THE BOOKMAN will be sent postpaid, for one year, on receipt of $2.00, and is for sale by all newsdealers at 25 cents per copy. Subscriptions will be received by all booksellers and newsdealers, and by the price will be raised to $17.50 in paper and $20 in half morocco. Any library, bookseller, or collector who has not a copy should order before it is too late.

ONLY 71 copies still remain of the Subject Volume of the American Catalogue for 1876, which we will supply for $12.50 in paper and $15 in half morocco. This is of especial value in libraries and bookstores which cannot now buy the Author Volume, as, except novels, juveniles, etc., it gives the same books, rearranged by subjects. The price of this work also will be raised when the stock is reduced to 50 copies.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. have nearly ready a volume of short stories by the late Edward Bellamy, which will be prefaced by a biographical sketch of the author by Sylvester Baxter.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next month a new novel by Miss Ellen Glasgow, entitled "Phases of an Inferior Planet," a story of New York's so-called Bohemia; "Roden's Corner," a story of London and the Hague, by Henry Seton Merriman; also, a new and greatly revised edition of William Blaikie's "How to Get Strong," which will hereafter be entitled "How to Get Strong and How to Stay So."

HENRY HOLT & CO. will shortly issue "A Concise Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities," edited by F. Warre Cornish, vice-provost of Eton College. While based on Sir William Smith's famous work, it is not a mere abridgment, but is thoroughly up to date, and gains in compactness by combining several smaller articles of the parent work under new headings. The book will be a very light, handy octavo of 800 pages and will contain about 1100 illustrations.

FLOOD & VINCENT, Meadville, Pa., publishers of the text-books of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle, announce the publication of the following volumes, which will constitute the course of reading for the English year, 1898–99: "Twenty Centuries of English History," by James Richard Joy; "Europe in the Nineteenth Century," by Prof. H. P. Judson, of the University of Chicago; "From Chaucer to Tennyson," by Prof. Henry A. Beers, of Yale University; "Men and Manners of the Eighteenth Century," by Miss Susan Hale; and "Walks and Talks in the Geological Field," by Alexander Winchell, late of the University of Michigan.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY announce that they have leased from Robert Bonner's Sons the plates and rights of publishing seventy books of their Ledger Library, embracing many popular books by Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, Mrs. Harriet Lewis, Honoré de Balzac, Amelia E. Barr, Laura Jean Libbey, Leon Lewis, Robert Grant, Anna Katharine Green, and other popular writers, and that they will begin issuing new editions in September, which will run through the coming year in the Madison Square and other paper-covered libraries.

W. A. WILDE & CO., Boston, will publish at once "A Romance of American Colonization," by Dr. William Elliot Griffis, which follows the author's "Romance of Discovery," and in its turn will be followed by a third volume, "A Romance of Conquest," covering the results achieved in our war with Spain. They will publish shortly a story of the closing days of the Revolution, entitled "A Soldier of the Legion," by Col. Charles Ledyard Norton. Wm. Henry Harrison forms an important figure in the history, which in a large measure deals with the historical events in which Harrison took a large part.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just published an American edition of Heron-Allen's "Some Sidelights Upon Edward Fitzgerald's Poem, 'The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám.'" They have secured the American rights to W. H. White's "Manual of Naval Architecture—for the use of the officers of the Royal Navy, officers of the mercantile marine, yachtsmen, shipowners, and shipbuilders." They have in preparation a new series to be known as The Music Lovers' Library. The volumes to be included in it are "The Orchestra and Orchestral Music," by W. J. Henderson; "The Pianoforte and its Music," by H. E. Krehbiel; "Songs and Song-Writers," by Henry T. Finck; "The Opera, Past and Present," by W. F. Apthorp, and "Choir and Choral Singing," of which author has not yet been selected. It is the aim of the series to instruct lovers of music who have no technical knowledge of the subject by presenting it in a simple and entertaining manner. They have also in preparation a history in narrative form of the manners and customs of social life in New York City from the time it was founded until the death of the last of the Dutch matrons. It has been written by Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, and is entitled "The Goede Vrouw of Mana-ha-ta, at home and in society."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Grahame, Kenneth. The headswoman. N. Y., J: Lane, 1898. c. 54 p. sq. S. (Bodley booklets.) pap., 35 c. [2366

A mediæval town of the sixteenth century furnishes the background to a quaint story about a young girl who asserts her right to earn her own living in her own way and claims the position of public executioner—an office that was hereditary in her own family. Her methods of performing her duties and her final retirement into private life seem to be a satirical fling at women who claim equal rights with men.

Pearce, J. H. Ezekiel's sin: a Cornish romance. N. Y., G: H. Richmond & Son, 1898. c. 4+297 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2392

Ezekiel was an old Cornish "crabber" and had always led an honest life, until one day he finds the dead body of a man on the end of his lines. He takes a belt from the body containing eighty-five sovereigns, which he shares with his daughter Drusilla, whose matrimonial plans have lagged for the need of money. Ezekiel's theft is witnessed by an uncanny creature called "Tom the hangman," who thereafter makes his life miserable until Ezekiel gives him the bulk of the booty. The scene does not stray from Cornwall or away from humble fisher life.

Vondel, a Dutch dramatist and poet, was born at Cologne, 1587; he died in 1679 at Amsterdam. Of the numerous tragedies, etc., of which he was the author "Lucifer" is considered his masterpiece. This was published about thirteen years before Milton's "Paradise lost," and relates to the same subject, though one is not supposed to have suggested the other. Many Dutch critics, however, consider "Lucifer" to be an allegorical account of the rise of the Netherlands against Philip of Spain. The translation is preceded by an introduction by Dr. W. H. Carpenter; an article on "Vondel and his Lucifer," by Dr. G. Kalff; and two articles by the translator, on "Vondel, his life and times" and "The 'Lucifer,' an interpretation." There is a bibliography of Vondelian literature (1 p.) and also some interesting parallelisms between Vondel and Milton.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 13, 1898.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SHALL ARTISTS COPYRIGHT THEIR WORK?

THE action of certain American sculptors and mural painters in copyrighting their work in the Library of Congress and in other public institutions has been severely criticised in many quarters. An architectural journal recently made the assertion that the course pursued by these artists "is considered by people generally to be a discreditable piece of sharp practice, for their work was paid for by the public and from the public treasury," and, "to encourage great decorative work among the people, reproductions of these decorations should be disseminated as widely as possible." This contention is a one-sided one and fails to do justice to the artists so attacked.

The artist looks at the question from another point of view than the layman. The money received from royalties on reproductions of their achievements is often inconsiderable and is regarded by the artist as a wholly secondary matter. But what the artists chiefly desire is to keep absolute control of the reproductions of their works. Manufacturing concerns are quick to realize the advantage of having artistic advertising matter, and they seize any design which suits their fancy, provided it is not copyrighted. No artist cares to see his work affixed to a box of cigars or to bottles of patent medicines; as a matter of fact, some famous American paintings have been treated in this way.

Artists wish not only to say who shall reproduce their paintings and statues, but how they shall be reproduced. No one would be better pleased than they if good photographs or photo-engravings of their works could be sold at moderate prices, as such sales would tend to popularize their work; but in all cases they ought to be able to approve of the reproductions before they are put on the market.

Illustrated newspapers frequently desire to present by the half-tone process the work of the painters and sculptors. This is, of course, greatly to the advantage of the artists, provided that the reproductions are adequate. If the work is copyrighted the artist is enabled to choose a proper representative among such papers and may also reserve the right to pass on the proofs of the engravings.

In architecture there is the same necessity of having the plans and elevations copyrighted. The architects who are building St. John's Cathedral in New York copyrighted their drawings, and thereby prevented a representation of the building which they are constructing being used by a cement firm for advertising purposes. Examples where copyright has been beneficial to the cause of art quite as much as to the artists themselves are almost endless, and we can see no reasonable ground for complaint if artists use the means which the law has put at their disposal for the protection of their artistic property.

THE HUMORS OF BOOKSELLING.

JOHN SHAYLOR, of Simpkin, Marshall & Co., one of the ripest bibliopoles in London, recently contributed a budget of bookselling anecdotes to the Publishers' Circular, from which we reprint a portion, though some of them may already be known to American readers:

"A scholar and a gentleman entering a bookseller's shop inquired for a translation of 'Omar Khayyám.' 'No,' said the bookseller promptly, 'there is no such book. Homer wrote the "Iliad" and the "Odyssey"—both of which I have in stock, but he did not write the book you are inquiring for.' The bookseller evidently had not heard of the now popular Persian poet. Another recently had an important inquiry for a book the only clue to which that could be given was that it had a Hermit Crab on the cover. The intelligent bookseller had no difficulty in recognizing that Drummond's 'Natural Law' was the book required; on the other hand, little intelligence was shown by the bookseller, who instructed his collector to try the Journal of Horticulture office for a copy of 'Wilberforce on the Incarnation,' he evidently thinking that the Incarnation was a variety of the carnation. During the brilliant summer of 1893, it will be remembered that wasps were very plentiful. A bookseller having to obtain on three separate occasions a copy of Aristophanes' 'Wasps,' ventured the opinion that he believed the copies were required for some experts who were inquiring into the cause of the plague.

"A mind conversant with the titles of books is all that is necessary to translate what works were required when the following were asked for: 'Earnest Small Travellers,' and 'Alice the Mysterious,' by Bulwer, explained themselves. Homer's 'The Ills he had,' and Cæsar's 'Salvation Wars,' were only Homer's 'Iliad' and Cæsar's 'Helvetian Wars,' slightly altered. 'Curiosities of a Woman-Hater' was only 'Curiosities of Nomenclature.' 'Little Monster,' by J. M. Barrie, the author of 'Widow's Thumbs,' sounds peculiar. It appears rather disloyal to ask for 'The Queen's Beer,' but it was 'Her Majesty's Bear' that was wanted. Hall's 'Bear Track Hunting' for Hall's 'Bric-à-Brac Hunter;' 'All the Nights' (Hall & Knight's) 'Algebra' and 'Sun and Shines' (Sonnenschein's) 'Arithmetic' show gross ignorance of educational literature.

"Although, according to Dr. Johnson, 'Wit will never make a man rich,' yet human nature would be poor indeed without it. Probably this explains the strange habit of associating a certain class of imaginary literature with certain days. Thus regularly on April 1 inquiries would be made by some small boy, or a bigger one denuded of wit, for 'The History of the World Before the Creation;' another would inquire for 'A Treatise on the Extraction of Milk from the Pigeon,' by a 'Practical Fancier;' or, again, 'The Extraordinary Adventures of Adam's Grandfather,' written by himself; failing that, get 'A Pattern of Eve's Fig Leaves,' by an 'Experienced Dressmaker.'

"Ignorance on the part of readers is accountable for the frequent inquiries made for books supposed to have been written by certain characters in fiction, such as 'The Idols of the Market Place,' by Squire Wendover, mentioned in 'Robert Elsmere;' 'Sweet Bells Jangled,' quoted by Anstey in 'The Giant's Robe;' 'The Pilgrim's Scrip,' by Richard Feverel, from G. Meredith's 'Ordeal of Richard Feverel,' and many times has the 'Electric Creed,' by Marie Corelli, mentioned in 'The Romance of Two Worlds,' been asked for."

OBITUARY NOTES.

GEORG MAURICE EBERS, the Egyptian scholar and novelist, died at his country-seat, Tutzing, near Munich, Germany, on Sunday, August 7, aged sixty-one. Ebers was a posthumous child, born on March 1, 1837, in Berlin. His mother lodged in a house where lived the Brothers Grimm, the world-renowned grammarians and collectors of Teutonic folklore, and the scholarly bent of young Ebers' mind was largely due to his intimate association with them and their intimate friend Humboldt. His father had been a banker who left some means, and his mother provided him an excellent education. He first studied law, but under the influence of Lepsius and Brugsch he abandoned law and devoted himself to Oriental languages and Egyptology. On leaving the university Ebers visited the principal Egyptian museums of Europe, and in 1864 published his first novel, "The Daughter of an Egyptian King," to the intense disgust of Lepsius. The young scholar pacified the great scientist by bringing out his "Egypt and the Books of Moses," which gave him a standing among the learned and earned him his appointment as professor of Egyptology at the University of Leipsic, which he held until 1889. After a short journey to Egypt, from which he was recalled to fill the chair of professor of Egyptology at the University of Leipsic, he revisited the land of the Pharaohs in 1872. During his excavations at Thebes he discovered the papyrus dating from the second century B.C., which is still known by the name of its discoverer. It contains a complete manual of Egyptian medicine of the sixteenth century before Christ. Ebers' books were published in rapid succession and were very popular in this country, where before the copyright protection they were brought out by half a dozen publishers both in German and English. A uniform edition is now issued by the Appletons. The most important novels are entitled "An Egyptian Princess;" "A Question: an idyll for a painting of Alma Tadema;" "The Burgomaster's Wife;" "Homo Sum;" "The Emperor;" "Uarda;" "A Word, Only a Word;" "Bride of the Nile;" "Margery;" "Joshua: a story of biblical times;" "Serapis;" "Cleopatra;" "In the Blue Pike;" "Barbara Blomberg;" and "Arachne." Among weightier literature are "Story of My Life;" "Life of Richard Charles Lepsius;" "Life of Alma Tadema;" and the two enduring books of reference, "Egypt and the Books of Moses" and "Egypt, descriptive, historical, and picturesque."

DR. EDWARD BIBBINS AVELING, the English Socialist, died in London on the 4th inst. He was born at Stoke-Newington on November 29, 1851, and was of Irish parentage on both sides. He was educated at various schools and at University College, London, and went to Cambridge as Professor Michael Foster's assistant in physiology. He has also been professor of chemistry and physiology at New College and of comparative anatomy at the London Hospital. His life has been one of great activity, and he has been by turns Socialistic lecturer, journalist, author, and dramatist. His wife was the daughter of Karl Marx, the first great leader of Socialism. Dr. Aveling, accompanied by his wife and Wilhelm Liebknecht, the leader of the Social Democrats of Germany, visited this country in September, 1886, and remained about three months, lecturing in the principal cities. On this tour Dr. Aveling lectured in English, his wife in French, and Herr Liebknecht in German. Dr. Aveling wrote many text-books and other works designed to popularize the teachings of Karl Marx and of Charles Darwin. He also translated several socialistic works into English. Among them were the first volume of Marx's "Kapital," Engel's "Socialism," Häckel's "Pedigree of Man," and Titchomiroff's "Russia."

MRS. ELLEN LOUISE DEMOREST, better known as Mme. Demorest, the widow of W. Jennings Demorest, founder of Demorest's Family Magazine, died on the 10th inst., at the Hotel Renaissance, New York City. Mrs. Demorest had been actively engaged in philanthropic and temperance work and in publishing Demorest's Family Magazine and other literary and fashionable periodicals for many years. She was born in Saratoga in 1824, and was a daughter of the well-known Curtis family of that place. Her lifework was closely identified with that of W. Jennings Demorest, her husband, who died in April, 1895. About fifteen years ago she retired from an active business life.

JAMES HALL, State Geologist of New York since 1837, died suddenly on Sunday, August 7, at Echo Hill, a little resort in the White Mountains. Dr. Hall was born at Hingham, Mass., on September 12, 1811, and was almost eighty-seven years old but possessed of full mental and physical vigor. He was for many years a scientific associate of Louis Agassiz. Up to ten years ago Dr. Hall had writen over 250 separate papers on scientific subjects. His career as an active scientific worker is without a parallel in this country, if not in the world, and his biography is the history of American geology.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

EMILE OLLIVIER has just completed a volume presenting a portrait study of Napoleon III. It is the third volume of his work entitled "L'Empire Liberal."

PROFESSOR MAX MÜLLER is preparing two volumes for publication, one being entitled "Indian Philosophy," and the other "The Sayings of Ramah Krishna." A third book he is now seeing through the press is a new edition of his "German Lore-Fragments from the Papers of an Alien."

JUDGE EDWARD ABBOTT PARRY, who was the victim of a murderous assault in his own court in London, in the last week of July, has won a high position in literature. So far back as 1888 he published a charming volume of "The Letters of Dorothy Osborne to Sir William Temple, 1652-54," and in later years (1895) he wrote a delightful book for children in the Lewis Carroll vein, entitled "Katawumpus," which was published by David Nutt in London and by The Macmillan Co. in New York. This was followed by another in December, 1896, entitled "Butterscotia, or, a cheap trip to Fairyland." The judge was also in his early years at the Bar a dramatic critic.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE English periodical Great Thoughts, for August, contains a critical estimate of Edmund Clarence Stedman, contributed by the editor.

THE serial rights of a large portion of Sidney Colvin's biography of Stevenson have been bought by Scribner's Magazine. The publication will probably begin next year.

SIEGEL, COOPER CO., as already announced, began in July to issue a monthly literary magazine under the title of Book-Notes, which will give brief reviews of the books on sale in their book department and original articles on literary topics. It is edited by Edward Ackermann, who is well known in the trade as a competent and painstaking bookseller. In the August issue Mr. Ackermann endeavors to stir up the American publishers, booksellers, and binders to make a collective exhibition at the World's Fair of 1900 to be held in Paris.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE trustees of the British Museum will publish at once the second volume of the catalogue of the Greek papyri in their possession. It will contain descriptions of all the papyri acquired in the years 1891-1895, with the complete texts of nearly 300 documents, accompanied by introductions and notes. These documents are wholly of a non-literary character, and include official and private papers of various kinds, the literary texts having been already published elsewhere. The editor, as in the case of the first volume (published in 1893,) is F. G. Kenyon. An atlas of facsimiles, containing 123 plates of dated papyri, will be published at the same time.

AN important discovery of a bibliographic character has recently been made, and the result of it is to be published during the fall by Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co. About six years ago Mrs. Lewis and her sister, Mrs. Gibson, were examining treasure in the Convent of St. Katherine on Mount Sinai, when the librarian called their attention to a beautiful MS., whose value he was desirous of knowing. This proved to be a Palestinian Syriac Lectionary, of which it was believed only one example existed in the Vatican. Further research resulted in the discovery of yet another such MS., and the book which is to be published will contain the text of that first discovered, with notes embodying the different readings existing in the latter MS. as well as that which is contained in the Vatican. The printing of the book has taken over four years, and has been entrusted to Gilbert & Rivington, the well-known Oriental printers. It is thought that this work will be of the first importance to antiquarians and theological students.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE WERNER CO., Akron, O., announce a gift-book entitled "Remington's Frontier Sketches," by Frederic Remington.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY promise an édition de luxe (limited to 1050 copies) of "Tennyson's Life and Works," in twelve volumes.

DODD, MEAD & CO. will publish Paul Laurence Dunbar's first long novel, to be entitled "The Uncalled." They have also in press S. R. Crockett's new novel, "A Woman of Fortune."

HENRY O'MEARA, who has been for many years connected with Boston journalism, will publish privately, by subscription, a volume to be entitled "Songs of Patriotism and Boston Odes." Mr. O'Meara has been called on many times by the city of Boston and by various societies to furnish odes on festal occasions.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. have in preparation a new book by Margaret Sidney (Mrs. D. Lothrop) entitled "A Little Maid of Concord Town: a romance of the American Revolution," which is to be illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. Any book from the pen that added "Five Little Peppers" to the children's bookshelves is sure of a hearty reception.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish in book form, in October, "The Adventures of François," by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, which will be brought to a close in the September issue of

The Century; a collection of short stories, by David Gray, which are said to sound a new note in American miniature fiction; also, "Madame Butterfly," a collection of short stories, by John Luther Long, the scenes of which are laid in Japan.

HENRY BERKOWITZ, P. O. Box 825, Philadelphia, has prepared a little book on "Kiddush," which gives the formula for celebrating the ushering in of the Sabbath in Jewish home circles. The book contains selections from Jewish writings and an account of the Sabbath in history and the Law. A glossary explains all symbols and terms. It is dedicated to Jewish women, calling upon them to preserve the ancient home customs regarding the Sabbath.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have published a volume on "American Indians," by Dr. Frederick Starr, Professor of Anthropology in the University of Chicago. The author discusses the Indian's houses, dress, childhood, stories, hunting and war, canoes and fishing, firemaking, sign language, writing with pictures, wampum, the medicine man, dances, funerals and graves, the mound builders, the Algonkins, the Six Nations, the Pawnee, the Sioux, George Catlin and his pictures, the sun dance, the Pueblos, the snake dance, cliff dwellings of the southwest, totem posts, etc.

THE CONTINENTAL PUBLISHING CO. has just published a translation, by Leonard C. Van Noppen, of Vondel's Dutch epic "Lucifer," which has had its principal literary fame, in England at least, as the probable suggestion to Milton of some parts of "Paradise Lost." This is the first complete English version of the work, though fragments of it have been translated into English from time to time by Edmund Gosse. Prof. W. H. Carpenter, who writes the introduction, declares the translation to be "not only in and for itself an event of more than ordinary importance in literature, but one that cannot fail to awaken among us a curiosity as to what else of supreme value may be contained in Dutch literature."

THE DODGE STATIONERY CO., 317 Broadway, New York, announce for publication a work on heraldry of value to stationers and all who are interested in the use of crests and arms. Unlike other works on the same subject it will be of a popular nature, and will present enough information to enable any one to converse intelligently on the subject. The work will have over one hundred illustrations and a complete index to the technical terms used in heraldry. They have also in press a book for boys entitled "One-Armed Jack." The title-page will bear the name of "Marie Morelle" as author, but it is stated that this name is simply a nom de plume and that the author is a prominent society lady well known both in New York and San Francisco.

HENRY B. BULT, who was arrested some months ago for larceny on the charge of W. E. Benjamin, was sentenced by Judge Newburger, on the 5th inst., to one years's imprisonment in the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island, N. Y. Bult was born in London sixty-five years ago, and is the descendant of an old family of tradesmen—experts in books and engravings for generations. He married against his father's wish and lost his patrimony. After struggling for some time for an existence in London he came to New Yo during the war and got a place at Sabin where he had charge of the prints and engra ings. After some years he left Sabin, unde cloud, and began business for himself at Broadway. Then domestic troubles ca upon him. He separated from his wife, ne lected his business, and finally disappeared together. When he returned he obtained e ployment with George A. Leavitt & Co., w whom he remained a number of years, a then took a position with William Evarts Be jamin, as appraiser, salesman, and buy Bult's undoing, it seems, was due to his e cureanism. To indulge his palate he took place as cook in a Bowery restaurant at nig where he had an opportunity of preparing himself chops and steaks to his taste. Final ill-health obliged him to give up this positi Then he helped himself to his employe money in order that he might frequent fashi able and high-priced restaurants.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish Charles Dana's "Recollections of the Civil War," p tions of which have already appeared McClure's; "The Scientific Memoirs of Thom Henry Huxley," edited by Professors Micha Foster and E. Chetwode; the sequel George Moore's "Evelyn Innes;" and "T Golden Chain," by Horace Annesley Vachel For the young people they will publish "T Hero of Erie" (Commodore Perry), by Jame Barnes, a new volume in the Young Heroes Our Navy Series; "With the Black Prince," b William O. Stoddard; "The Pilot of the Ma flower," by Hezekiah Butterworth; "Succes Against Odds," by William O. Stoddard; and new edition of "Bible Stories in Bible Lan guage," by Edward Tuckerman Potter, with a introduction by the Right Rev. Henry C Potter, Bishop of New York.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. have in prepar ation for the fall upwards of forty new book exclusive of the Temple edition of Dickens' novels in forty volumes. Of the books an nounced they will publish in August "Klon dike Nuggets, and how two boys secured them," by Edward S. Ellis, with illustration by Orson Lowell; "Adventures of Captain Little," a collection of sea stories that have made their author, Cutliffe Hyne, popular in England, where the stories have been appearing serially in a prominent magazine; "Life's Book of Animals," a collection of one hundred amusing pictures for children showing animals and their ways, reprinted from Life; "A Queen of Men," a novel of life in Ireland, by William O'Brien, M.P. from Cork; and "The Lady of Castell March," a tale of adventure, by Owen Rhoscomyl. In September they will publish a book entitled "South America," a popular illustrated history of the struggle for liberty in the Andean republics and Cuba, by Hezekiah Butterworth; "Songs of Action," a volume of poems, by A. Conan Doyle; "As We Grow Old," an authorized translation, by Neltje Blanchan, of one of Maurice Jokai's masterpieces; "The Day's Work," a collection of Rudyard Kipling's stories of ships and machinery, in which he makes the inanimate live and the huge organisms of the marine engines, as well as the American locomotive, speak; "Military Europe," a collection of the articles contributed in part to McClure's, by General Nelson A. Miles; "Moran of the 'Lady Letty,'" an original short story of a young Norwegian woman who has followed the sea with her father, and knows no other life, by Frank Norris; "Inside of One Hundred Homes," studies of the interiors of 100 American houses photographed for the Ladies' Home Journal, with text by William Martin Johnson, "Model Houses for Little Money," by William L. Price, and "Good Cooking," a manual of practical housekeeping, by Mrs. S. T. Rorer, three volumes in the Ladies' Home Journal Domestic Library; "The People of Our Neighborhood," an intimate glimpse into New England life, by Mary E. Wilkins, and "What Shall Our Boys Do for a Living?" by Charles F. Wingate. Notice of the books to be published in October and November will be given in a later issue.

FOREIGN NOTES.

It is now said that Bismarck's memoirs have been deposited in London, from which point they will be distributed, in order to prevent any action by the German court to suppress them.

The Oxford University Press will publish in September the long-expected "Revised Bible, with References," which has been in preparation by eminent English divines for the past seven or eight years.

The Tauchnitz edition is adding a German translation of George Moore's "Evelyn Innes" to its list of publications. Mr. Moore has hitherto only been known to Baron Tauchnitz's continental readers through his one-volumed story, "Celibates."

The "Index Librorum Prohibitorum" is to be revised under the direction of the Prefect of the Congregation of the Index, Cardinal Steinhuber, at Rome. A large number of books that have become obsolete, or which were erroneously indexed as heretical, will be erased.

T. Fisher Unwin, London, has just published G. H. Perris's volume on "Leo Tolstoy," to which Felix Volkovsky has contributed a preface. The volume contains also chapters on Old and Young Russia, Turgueneff, and Tolstoy, the Anarchist, and a full bibliography.

John van Voorst, whose death occurred last week, was the oldest of London publishers. Born in 1804, of a Dutch family settled in England for several generations, he served six years with the Longmans, and started business on his own account about 1832 in Paternoster Row. His first undertaking of importance was Yarrell's "British Fishes," begun in 1835, followed by Bell's "British Quadrupeds" in 1836, and by Yarrell's "British Birds" in 1837.

A new venture in publishing is about to be made in Vienna, by the German-Austrian Literary Society, now in process of formation under the auspices of more than a hundred scientific, literary, and artistic personages, with the object of practically developing intellectual life in all departments of literature, science, and art. It is proposed to effect this by means of a limited liability company with a capital of 500,000 florins (about $177,500), of which amount 200,000 florins have already been subscribed. The society intends to produce good books, illustrated works, and periodicals, and will have its own printing, illustrating, and binding establishments. It is also stated that the society's authors will be paid partly in shares! Whether this arrangement will be generally acceptable and what will be the result of the scheme time will show.

The Clarendon Press has just issued "The Parallel Psalter," being "The Prayer-Book Version of the Psalms" and a new version arranged on opposite pages. The introduction and glossaries are by the Rev. Dr. S. R. Driver. The introduction contains some account of the origin and history of the prayer-book psalter, and an explanation, in greater detail than can be stated in a preface, of the principles of translation which the editor has adopted. Of the glossaries, the first contains a select list of words and phrases of frequent occurrence in the psalter, with explanations (in certain cases) of their import and meaning, which may be found useful by students of the Psalms; the second is intended to illustrate and elucidate the principal archaisms occurring in the prayer-book version, especially those of a kind liable to mislead the reader. It will publish at once a volume on "Sir Henry Lawrence, the Pacificator," by Lieut.-General J. J. McLeod Innes, which will form a supplementary volume to the well-known Rulers of India series. The volume will include a map and portrait of the great administrator.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Athens, Ga.—T. B. Wooten will shortly open a new bookstore here.

New York City.—In correction of an item that appeared under this heading in our issue for July 16, E. R. Herrick & Co., 70 Fifth Avenue, desire us to state that the withdrawal of J. Parker White in no way affected the organization of their firm, which, as originally organized in 1896, is intact.

San Antonio, Tex.—L. B. Baldessareli & Co., of the "Louis Book Store," will celebrate the third anniversary of their business career by adding a complete stock of ten-cent sheet music to their already large stock of books, news, and stationery. Music publishers are requested to send their latest lists.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

For 1898 (Twenty-Sixth Year.)

Large 8vo. With Duplex Index.

"The Publishers' Trade List Annual" for 1898 contains:

The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume.

These Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction we are now applying it to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

Only those subscribing and forwarding amount now are entitled to subscription rate of $1.50; after publication day, and on orders for which we have to collect after that date, the regular price will be $2.00 net.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York, or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

☞ Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be dispatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for $1.20 per copy extra.

"WHITAKER'S REFERENCE LIST" (last volume of which is "o p") will be ready early in July. As usual, we have the agency in this country. Price will be $5.00 net, in two volumes. Those desiring copies are advised to order at once, as only 250 copies are assigned for American subscribers.
